

Seeking Tribal Child Welfare Organizations Looking to Improve Workforce Outcomes

Many Native child welfare organizations face staff turnover and other workforce challenges. The Quality Improvement Center for Workforce Development (QIC-WD) is dedicated to understanding how to support those organizations so their work leads to successful outcomes for children and their families in their community. One of our goals is to partner with Tribal organizations to learn more about specific workforce challenges and test strategies to address those challenges. Together, we will build knowledge that can be shared.

Working Together to Grow Knowledge

Using careful and culture-informed evaluation activities that are co-developed in partnership with tribal organizations, the QIC-WD will enhance what is known about promising and evidence-informed interventions that support the professional development of child welfare teams. This is an opportunity for Tribal organizations to learn from each other and other public child welfare agencies to generate knowledge about culturally based workforce practices.

Dates & Details

- Applications are due to the QIC-WD no later than February 15, 2017
 - Review the Call for Applications
 - Send a letter of intent by January 15, 2017 (optional, but desired)
 - Talk with the QIC-WD about the opportunity. We welcome your emails and will reach out to you to discuss your potential applications
- Title IV-B funded Tribes and Tribal Consortia are invited to apply
- 5-10 diverse state and Tribal child welfare project sites will be selected
- For selected sites, the QIC-WD will cover some expenses related to the implementation and evaluation

About the QIC-WD

The QIC-WD is dedicated to understanding how to improve child welfare workforce outcomes. The QIC-WD is funded by the Children's Bureau and led by University of Nebraska-Lincoln in partnership with a team of experts.

Visit www.qic-wd.org for more information

The QIC-WD is funded through the Department of Health and Human Services, Administration for Children and Families, Children's Bureau, Grant #HHS-2016-ACF-ACYF-CT-1178. The content of this publication does not necessarily reflect the view or policies of the funder, nor does mention of trade names, commercial products or organizations imply endorsement by the US Department of Health and Human Services.